

Congratulations to Almuhtada Smith on his Appointment to the Innovation and Performance Commission for the City of Los Angeles

Almuhtada Smith with L.A. Mayor Karen Bass

Langston Lifetime Member and Board Member Almuhtada Smith has been appointed to the Innovation and Performance Commission for the City of Los Angeles by Mayor Karen Bass. This prestigious appointment reflects Almuhtada's dedication to public service and his commitment to fostering innovation in Los Angeles and beyond.

The Innovation and Performance Commission, formerly known as the Quality and Productivity Commission, is a 9-member body dedicated to enhancing the delivery of services by the City of Los Angeles. The commission promotes innovation through the allocation of a $1M annual Innovation Fund, which supports pilot projects aimed at improving city services, driving cost savings, or generating new revenue streams. Additionally, the commission monitors performance management programs, sets annual goals, and develops a multi-year comprehensive performance plan to ensure continuous improvement in city operations.

Congratulations Commissioner Smith on this significant achievement and we look forward to your continued contributions to the legal field and the Los Angeles community!
